To my dearest granddaughter Pauwethra,

Grandma is really happy to hear that you won a medal in your school's sports day. Congratulations! I know my 'little sports woman' will win the medal because, grandma also won many medals during her school days.

I believe your mum and dad felt very proud of you. Did you know that your dad used to be the champion runner in his primary and secondary school? Yes. One day, he brought home a prestigious-looking and big trophy from his annual school sports day. He was praised by his school principal and teachers.

It is really a blessing to have a loving and capable granddaughter like you in our family. I hope you will continue to maintain our family pride and teach your children some day.

Watching you grow is the best experience I had in my life. You remind me so much of myself during my younger days. Unfortunately, I did not have a grandmother to share all my achievements with or to receive warm and tender hugs from like you do.

I want you to know that I treasure all the cheery moments of your growing years, from cuddling you like a koala to watching your cheeky smiles; and not forgetting, your first baby performance. You were such an angel.

Always remember what grandma has taught you, knowledge is power and live your life with moral values.

From Your Loving Granny Gopal
